ABSTRACT

If you collaborate with dobooku, you build dobooku.

Dobooku is an open and permeable group of civil engineers, structural designers, architects, urban planners and public works lovers - students and professionals alike. Dobooku is a Cultural Association that fosters the Culture of Design in Public Works. Dobooku was created on April 23th 2013 with a simple aim: spread the word on public works through design, aesthetics and creativity.

Dobooku is supported by four fundamental pillars: The Association, the web-site magazine, the social media network and all the activities we promote or support in order to cultivate debate around public works. Combining these, we walk through the path of education, seeking how to strengthen a fresh and holistic environment that helps all public works lovers to join and share and learn ideas.

Dobooku Association is always thinking outside the box, promoting and giving support to different activities. We have called them experiences.

- ✓ Experience 1: The Dobooku Awards for Students.
- ✓ Experience 2: The Dobooku Manifesto for Public Works.
- ✓ Experience 3: Dobooku Curatorial Activities.
- ✓ Experience 4: Dobooku Workshops.

Participation is the main focus on dobooku activities. Our goal is to integrate different views in a given space in time. To teach through design-thinking, to learn through design making, to understand through collective actions. Hence, we educate by doing common activities.
